FASKEN

▼ Workplace Vaccinations

- Mandatory vaccination policies for workplace face practical (and legal) challenges
- When those practical constraints are lessened, voluntary vaccination may meet employer needs
- Context is key and the situation is evolving

FASKEN

▼ Vaccination Policies

Erin Porter

+1 416 868 3536
eporter@fasken.com

FASKEN

▼ Key Considerations

- Legislation and Government Announcements
- Prior Case Law

FASKEN

▼ Current State of Mandatory Vaccination – Government Announcements

- On August 13, 2021, the Federal government announced a plan to impose a broad vaccination mandate for employees of the federal public sector and federally regulated employers such as banks, airlines, and rail operators.
- The mandate also extends to certain domestic travellers and will be implemented by the end of October.

FASKEN

▼ Current State of Mandatory Vaccination – Government Announcements

- As of September 1, 2021, Quebec instituted a vaccine passport requiring patrons of bars, restaurants, movie theatres and gyms, among other places, to present a QR-Code as proof of vaccination. Individuals with exemptions have been provided with an alternative QR-code to gain entry into selected sites.
- On September 13, 2021, British Columbia also instituted a vaccine passport, notably stricter than Quebec. Those who cannot be vaccinated cannot access spaces where vaccine passports are now required. Some of these spaces include: indoor sporting events, concerts, gyms, dance facilities and studios.

FASKEN

▼ Current State of Mandatory Vaccination – Government Announcements

- In Ontario, as of September 22, 2021, proof of vaccination will be mandatory in select settings. Some of these settings include: indoor dining, sporting events and facilities used for sports and fitness activities.

FASKEN

▼ Current State of Mandatory Vaccination

Certain sectors may be more likely to benefit from legislative enactments

- Directive 6 under s. 77.7 of the Health Protection and Promotion Act
 - Applies to Hospitals, service providers under the Home Care and Community Services Act, LHINs and Ambulances
 - Require vaccination, proof of medical reason for not being fully vaccinated or proof of completing an educational session*
 - If unvaccinated, must have regular antigen tests
- Schools
 - Require rapid tests for staff who are not vaccinated

FASKEN

▼ Current State of Mandatory Vaccination

- Ontario Regulation 364/20: Rules for Areas at Step 3 and at the Roadmap Exit Step
 - Any business that is open shall operate the business in compliance with advice from the MOH regarding implantation of a COVID-19 Vaccination Policy
 - Currently 18 public health units have recommended a policy

FASKEN

▼ Current State of Mandatory Vaccination – Government Announcements

- Other provinces with variations of vaccine passport laws in place or in the works include: Manitoba, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland and Labrador.

FASKEN

▼ Current State of Mandatory Vaccination – Key Employer Announcements

- Mandatory vaccine policies across sectors and industries have also been announced in the past two month with varying obligations for employers and employees.
- Many policies require employees to provide proof of full vaccination (two-doses plus 14 days) of a Health Canada approved vaccine to be in the physical work setting, while accommodating for those who are found to be exempt under provincial human rights legislation.
- Other iterations of mandatory workplace policies include mandatory testing and/or educational classes on the benefits of vaccination for those who are unvaccinated.

FASKEN

▼ Current State of Mandatory Vaccination – Key Employer Announcements

- Companies and organizations have decided to take a variety of approaches to the implementation of mandatory vaccination policies.
- Some hospitals in Ontario are taking a vaccination or termination approach while others are requiring unvaccinated employees to first take educational classes.
- In the airline industry, both Air Canada and WestJet have noted that employees must be fully vaccinated or risk unpaid leave or termination. For both airlines, vaccination is a condition of employment for new hires.

FASKEN

▼ Current State of Mandatory Vaccination – Key Employer Announcements

- Universities and colleges across the country are also requiring students to either voluntarily attest to their vaccine status or submit their proof of vaccination through online portals.
- Likewise, many small businesses and performance venues across the country are mandating vaccines for patrons.
- Many sports organizations requiring mandatory vaccination (universities, professional leagues for coaching and team staff, although not for players)

FASKEN

▼ Travel Restrictions

- Currently some provinces and territories have additional travel restrictions, such as the requirement to quarantine, if you are not vaccinated (Manitoba, Quebec, New Brunswick, Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Nunavut and Northwest Territories)
- Canada – international travellers and those returning home must have:
 - No signs or symptoms of COVID-19
 - ArriveCAN receipt
 - Quarantine plan in case you do not qualify for the exemption
 - Proof of vaccination
 - Pre-entry test results
- If you are not vaccinated, you will not likely be able to enter Canada, although an NSO can apply for an exemption from the Department of Canadian Heritage
- To travel by rail or air, you will have to be vaccinated

FASKEN

▼ Case Law

- No cases that examine mandatory COVID vaccination policy yet
- Caressant Care Nursing & Retirement Homes v. Christian Labour Association of Canada, 2020 CanLII 100531 (Randall)
 - Mandatory nasal swab testing upheld
 - “In my view, when one weighs the intrusiveness of the test: a swab up your nose every fourteen days, against the problem to be addressed – preventing the spread of COVID in the Home, the policy is a reasonable one. While the Home had not had an outbreak, I agree entirely with the Employer that, given the seriousness of an outbreak, waiting to act until that happens, is not a reasonable option.”

FASKEN

▼ In the beginning

- Mandatory flu vaccination during outbreaks
 - Cases initially examined policies that required employees to get a flu vaccine or an anti-viral
 - Policies limited to the health care sector
 - Widely found to be enforceable

FASKEN

▼ What came next

- Mask or Vaccinate Policies
 - Cases then examined policies that required employees to get a flu vaccine or an anti-viral or wear a mask for the entire flu season
 - Policies still limited to the health care sector
 - Widely found to be unenforceable (except initial decision from BC)
 - Insufficient scientific evidence to show the efficacy of the vaccine and that using masks reduced the transmission of influenza
 - “In the face of all of this, the “ask” that HCWs wear a mask for their entire shift or possibly months on end when entirely free of symptoms is completely unreasonable and is contrary to the collective agreement.” (para 81)

FASKEN

▼ Now what?

Lumber & Sawmill Workers' Union, Local 2537 v. KVP Co.* (1965) 16 LAC 73

1. It is consistent with the collective agreement;
2. It is reasonable;
3. It is clear and unequivocal;
4. It was brought to the attention of the employee(s) affected before the employer attempts to act on it;
5. Where the rule is invoked to justify discharge, the employee was notified that a breach of the rule could result in discharge; and
6. The employer has enforced the rule consistently since its introduction.

FASKEN

▼ Now what

- Is it reasonable?
 - Are there exemptions/accommodations?
 - Do you deal with a highly vulnerable population or provide an essential service?
 - If so, can the risk be mitigated by requiring that population be immunized?
 - Is there evidence to suggest that masking will not be sufficient to protect against the spread of the virus?
 - Is there an inability to socially distance or have other safety protocols in place?
 - What evidence is there around efficacy, transmission rates when vaccinated, etc.?
 - Are there policies around requiring visitors to be vaccinated?
 - Does it impact all employees or only new hires?
 - What would be the consequences if an employee still refuses to be vaccinated?

FASKEN

▼ Now What?

- Constructive Dismissal
 - A fundamental change to the terms of the employment relationship
 - Can you provide notice to mitigate?

FASKEN

▼ Now What?

- Just Cause Termination
 - Do you need to be vaccinated in order to perform an essential duty of your job?
 - Do you need to travel or attend events?
 - Can you effectively work from home?
 - Is a mandatory policy necessary to ensure that you take all reasonable precautions?
 - Have there been outbreaks despite physical distancing policies being put in place?

FASKEN

▼ Vaccine Status and Privacy

Valérie Gareau-Dalpé

+1 514 397 5248

vgareau@fasken.com

FASKEN

▼ Privacy Issues

- Collection of vaccination status
- Use of vaccination status
- Disclosure of vaccination status
- Safeguarding personal medical information

FASKEN

▼ Private-Sector Privacy Legislation

- Federal: Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act (“PIPEDA”)
- British Columbia: Personal Information Protection Act (“PIPA”)
- Alberta: Personal Information Protection Act (“PIPA”)
- Quebec: Act respecting the protection of personal information in the private sector

FASKEN

▼ Collection and Use of Vaccination Status

- Can likely request vaccination status, but:
 - Needs to be for reasonable purposes; and
 - Needs to be reasonable in the context.

FASKEN

▼ Disclosing and Safeguarding Vaccination Status

- Disclose only on a need-to-know basis.
- Store in a secure file with restricted access.
- Retain until the end of employment or the purposes of collection are no longer served, whichever is earlier.
- Protect the anonymity of employees who have not been vaccinated.

FASKEN

▼ Vaccination Information Policy

- Provide notice of the purposes of collection, use, and disclosure; how it will be used; how it will be disclosed; how it will be securely and safely stored; and for how long.
- Seek express written consent.

FASKEN

Reasonable Accommodation

Human Rights Case Law

Alexandra MacCarthy

+1 604 631 3226

amaccarthy@fasken.com

FASKEN

Legislation

- Human Rights Legislation:
 - Canadian Human Rights Act
 - Ontario Human Rights Code
 - Quebec Charter of Human Rights and Freedoms (Charte des droits et libertés de la personne)
 - BC Human Rights Code
 - Other provinces' human rights legislation
- Grounds: disability, religion/creed, family status

FASKEN

▼ Accommodation: Purpose, Goal and Limits

- Accommodation is a shared responsibility for both the person seeking accommodation and the employer
- Employees not entitled to perfect accommodation
- Not required to “alter the essence of the contract of employment, that is, the employee’s duty to perform work in exchange for remuneration”

FASKEN

▼ Undue Hardship

- Occurs when accommodation creates onerous conditions for the employer
- Requires assessment on case-by-case basis
- BC Human Rights Commissioner: point of undue hardship is fact dependent, though it is often reached when accommodation would be inordinately expensive or creates health and safety risks for others

FASKEN

▼ Accommodation and Vaccines

- Reasonable accommodation may be required with:
 - Mandatory vaccination requirements
 - Vaccination incentives
 - Returning to the workplace
- Examples of accommodation:
 - COVID-19 safety measures: PPE, physical distancing, masks, testing
 - Reassignment/redeployment
 - Working remotely
 - Leaves of absence

FASKEN

▼ Supporting Evidence of Protected Ground

- Depending on the circumstances, reasonable evidence for accommodation may include:
 - Disability: medical documentation (e.g. doctor's note)
 - Religion/creed: letter from religious elder, written declaration
 - Family Status: nature of childcare obligations and availability of childcare support

FASKEN

▼ Disability Accommodation

- An employer is NOT entitled to diagnostic information.
- Employers may generally request:
 - Details of any functional limitation(s)
 - Assessment of how any limitation(s) will impact on the employee's job duties
 - Projected duration of limitations
 - Timeline for further assessment
 - Referral to specialist
 - Prognosis for recovery, with or without limitations

FASKEN

▼ Religious Accommodation

- Includes practices, beliefs and observances that are part of a religion or faith
- What must be accommodated:
 - An employee's personal or subjective understanding of his or her religion or creed
 - Employee must demonstrate a sincere or honest belief or practice
- Does not include lack of belief in the science of vaccines and their safety or efficacy

FASKEN

▼ Family Status Accommodation

- Differs from province to province
 - In BC, an employee must demonstrate a “serious interference with a substantial parental or other family duty or obligation of the employee”
- May arise in context of returning to work
- Employee childcare obligations or employee resides with at-risk family members
- Employers not obligated to accommodate personal preference or conflicting schedules

FASKEN

▼ Checklist for Employers

1. Identify need for accommodation
2. Collect relevant information
3. Examine accommodation options
4. Implement accommodation and follow up

Returning to the Workplace

Vincent Rocheleau

+1 416 865 5121

vrocheleau@fasken.com

FASKEN

Pre-Pandemic

- One year ago, only a fraction of the Canadian workforce worked from home or remotely
- Typical:
 - 100% work from office arrangements
 - Some integration of work from home, hoteling, etc.
 - Accommodation of disabilities
 - Many workplaces: we cannot accommodate work from home

FASKEN

What Employees Want – A work schedule that allows them to work from home

- ADP Study (September 2020)
 - 45% of Canadians would prefer to work remotely 3/5 days per week
 - 25% prefer flexible work hours
- RBC (December 2020):
 - 63% of Canadians want at least 50-50 in office/remote work
- PwC (January 2021):
 - 55% of US workers would prefer to work remotely at least three days per week.

FASKEN

The “New Normal”

- Work from home was employer’s discretion, and now is legally required in some cases during the pandemic
 - Many jurisdictions in Canada are mandating or encouraging remote work unless attendance is required by the nature of the work
- Old position “we cannot accommodate work from home” may no longer be a practical answer in future
- Pandemic has shown remote work is possible and can be highly productive

FASKEN

▼ Flexible Work Arrangements

- Location Flexibility
 - Continuation of Remote Work
 - Hybrid Model: Remote Work and Office Work
 - “Hoteling”
- Schedule Flexibility
 - “Flextime”
 - Compressed Work Week
 - Job-Sharing

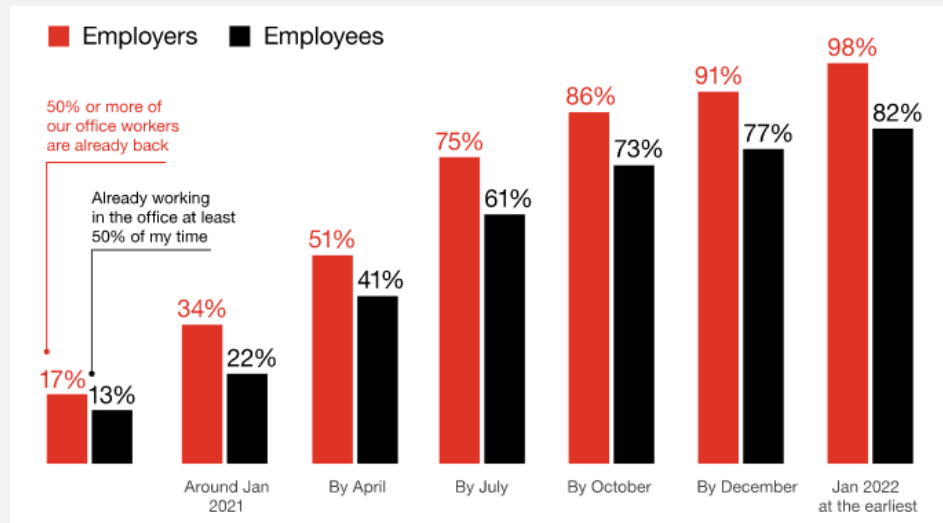

FASKEN

▼ Flexible Work Arrangements

- Hybrid Model
 - Once workplaces have reopened, organizations who have to-date worked remotely, may choose to employ a hybrid return to work model, whereby employees alternate the days when they work at the office or remotely.
 - There is no consensus on the optimal balance of work days at home versus work days in the office.

FASKEN

What Employees Want - A slow return to the office

PwC, Remote Work Survey

FASKEN

The Workplace

- Recall: Employers have general duties under health and safety legislation to take every precaution reasonable in the circumstances for the protection of workers at the workplace
- In some jurisdictions, the “workplace” can include a worker’s home (e.g. in British Columbia), while in others it does not (Ontario).

FASKEN

▼ What Employees Want – Compassion

FASKEN

▼ Second Checklist for Employers

1. Make a point of checking in often
2. Improve access to resources
3. Encourage virtual bonding (or, socially-distant bonding where safe!)
4. Celebrate milestones and accomplishments
5. Encourage employees to use assistance programs

Morneau Shepell

FASKEN

Discrimination and Harassment

- Reports of racism and discrimination towards Asian-Canadian population have sparked since the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic
- Employees who have had and/or are perceived to have had COVID-19 may also experience discriminatory treatment
- From both an employee morale perspective and health and safety perspective, it is imperative employers protect these employees from discrimination and harassment, whether online or at work
